

Pacifists Ask Woods to Rule On 'Free Speech'

Accuse Police of Halting Their Meeting in Harlem Hall

Are the pacifists to be permitted to hold anti-conscription and anti-enlistment demonstrations in public halls?

Harry Weinberger, attorney for the Emergency Peace Federation, asked that question in a letter he sent yesterday to Police Commissioner Woods.

Mr. Weinberger based his inquiry on the halting of a meeting by the Harlem Union Against Conscription at the New Star Casino, 107th Street and Park Avenue, Tuesday night. He said the police stopped the meeting, caused the lights to be put out and the doors locked as the crowd gathered outside.

"We want to know if the New York police are going to suppress free speech," said Mr. Weinberger. "The promoters are going to the expense of having posters and handbills circulated, and they want to know where they stand before the crowds gather and are turned away. We want it definitely stated whether the right of assembly and free speech is to be recognized any longer in New York. We have brought suit against Aaron Schiffmann, the manager of the New Star Casino, for breach of contract."

Another anti-conscription meeting was arranged for to-night at Westminster Hall, 25 Lenox Place, Bronx. Colleagues—Emergency Peace Federation—asked to the Professors H. W. Dana and Robert Hale of Columbia; David Cooper, of New York University; Herbert Kraft, of Cornell, and Miss Grace Gronbecker, of Hunter College.

Opposition to conscription is being supported by the World Patriots, headed by Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram, who is obtaining signatures to pledges saying, "I will not kill nor help kill my fellow men." Mrs. Cram said the signs were being card-indexed.

"Pan-Asianism" Declared To Be Policy of Japan

Article in Count Okuma's Magazine Urges China to Submit to Tokio's Control

(From The Tribune Books)

Washington, April 18. In Count Okuma's magazine, "Shin Nippon," a copy of which was received here to-day, Dr. Sawayanagi discusses China's relations with Japan on a basis of pan-Asianism as follows:

"China may be subjected to various forms of menace by the powers on this score, and as China is not powerful enough to cope with this Japan may be compelled to deal with such powers behalf of that country. Thus China may be scared the trouble of acquiring in endless demands preferred by the powers."

"In acting such a role Japan must, of course, be prepared to bring down upon herself the jealousy of the European and American countries. This will be the inevitable result of the adoption by Japan of the principles of civilized pan-Asianism."

China for similar rights and interests, but their application need not be accepted, as Japan is entitled to those rights and interests in compensation for the special help she gives China.

"China must necessarily go to others for assistance, and as the calling in of the assistance of many countries will only complicate the situation the wise course for her is to rely exclusively on one particular country, whose interests are closely bound up with hers."

"From this point of view, it will be seen that Japan is the country in which China ought to turn for help. Japan must not grudge any assistance to China, and she must be ready even to render that country financial help of the largest dimensions. Of course, Japan cannot interfere with the vested rights of the powers in China but she can ask China for some rights and interests in return for her financial aid."
